Sneak Preview of Fall/Winter 2009 Collections at The Shoppes of Four Seasons Indulge yourself in a Luxurious Shopping Experience

Macao, Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China (September 2, 2009) – Fashion aficionados start refilling their wardrobe as the weather cools down. The Shoppes at Four Seasons proudly offers you a variety of selections for this Fall/Winter 2009 collections without you having to take a long journey to New York, Paris or Milan.

The Fall/Winter 2009 collections have just arrived. Featuring metallics, royal blues, bold primary colors, frills, gold embellishment, feathers and fur; these elements will become the main trend of this season. Goods range from clothes, shoes, jewelleries to suitcases, and are available all under one roof. The Shoppes at Four Seasons houses the finest array of more than 160 luxury and designer brands around the globe in which one will suit your discerning style.

Givenchy

For his Autumn/Winter 2009-2010 Ready-to-Wear Collection for Givenchy, Riccardo Tisci drew inspiration from the 1930's, and in particular the surrealist movement, using this theme for a wide-ranging exploration of feminine sensuality that more than hinted at its animal side. Exaggerated cap shoulders and narrow sleeves were evident throughout the collection, evoking images of a contemporary urban take on a Thirties' icon. For the men's collection, the designer drew inspiration from 1940's photographs of Cuban and Puerto Rican marines. The hand-stitched fishnet scarf with chain detailing around the edges is a standout accessory. Glitter made another appearance on shoes, ankle boots and tight-fitting over-the-knee bondage boots, incorporating feminine details into a strongly masculine wardrobe.

MACR BY MARC JACOBS

The Marc by Marc Jacobs Fall/Winter 2009 Collection takes a more sophisticated viewpoint on the late 1970's and 80's street style. The collection proposes a light ochre and brown palette with an accent of jewel tones of purple, red, green and teal which are highlighted with gold details. Marc Jacobs adopts a clean approach to this season's pattern design that fits well into the retro preppy style. Stripes are another motif. Rainbow stripes appear on sweaters, dresses, scarves and tights. It showcases the dainty and charm of ladies as well as the vividness of young girls.

STEFANO RICCI

The philosophy guiding Stefano Ricci in the pursuit of his vision has always been to firmly believe that products must remain synonymous with classic sartorial style. Thus, from the beginning the company's efforts has been focused on achieving the highest quality levels, from the selection of raw materials to the creation of the design and handcrafted tailoring. This Fall/Winter, the Stefano Ricci suit is even richer as the various super 160's and 180's fabrics are the setting of new silk linings with unique combinations of colors and designs that match with small, but also the details of every single garment. This way the jacket, too, has been enriched by external silk stitching that matches with the silk linings, a detail, rendering it even more outstanding. Preciousness of pattern, quality of fabrics and attention to each detail.

SHIATZY CHEN

Asian influences resonate in scenic destinations and cultures around the world, reminiscent of Shiatzy Chen's designs. Reminiscent of traders who voyage across the Silk Road facing extensive weather conditions, Shiatzy Chen produces a fresh and modern women's collection featuring versatile pieces that can be layered. Variety of colors such as moss green, Prussian blue, pearly grey, to warm cherry reds, persimmon, ochre, signifies weather conditions from blistering sand storms and hot humid heat to frigid blistery winters creating the aura of Tang Dynasty. A myriad of colors are combined with a classic 50's silhouette. Some creations consist of a traditional empire waist; while others are adorned with Chinese interlace crochet. Depicting the lifestyle of the Tang women, loose clean flowing lines and contours recreate traditional imageries such as graceful pastures of willows, flowers, and oasis.

VALENTINO

Valentino 360° collection of handbags is the optimum formula for a woman who lives a 360 degrees life and is perfectly adaptable for any occasion. Every small or large version is closed with an elegant macro bow, in all its color-material combinations which can be smoothly enclosed in any suitcase. The satin version is easy to fold, light and soft. It weighs only 330 grams and creates a fresh and distinctive look. A wide variety of materials such as malleable leather and soft precious furs are available along with shiny satin and sequins embroidery. The suede version is enriched by lizard skin tone-on-tone handles. Original color palettes such as intense and bright red, rouge noir, emerald green, turquoise and coral complete the range with shades of beige, grey and black. Ladies' of true essence is elegantly expressed.

Limited Edition

This Fall/Winter, The Shoppes at Four Seasons will continue to present limited collection items. Alain Mikli presents Zelfina Zelettrez exclusive designs using jewellery and sterling-silver charms as the main theme with link, spider, eye and gothic piercing style. The design represents a mix of organic materials and gemstone designs with humour and freshness. Inspiration of the design came from childhood memories and fairy tales. In celebration of the brand heritage, the newly launched handbags of Bally, featuring its iconic brand pattern "Busy B" has been re-interpreted so that the print is created through texture. Patent leather is heat stamped in stages to create texture graduating from matte to shiny.
